Leadership Overview

My goal as a leader is to foster a collaborative process in which those that work with me are provided opportunities to build a shared vision and play an active role in the decision making process while being mindful of the need to make steady progress towards a goal. I believe in accountability, setting and holding high standards, rewarding productivity and providing opportunities and incentives for every individual to contribute to the success of the unit. I hold myself to the same high standards as my coworkers, and I believe in leading by example. I tend to be pragmatic in my approach to problem solving because I have the ability to grasp the big picture and the pieces to find a solution to a problem.

Throughout my career I have been an active member of the faculty having been Advisor or Co-Advisor to 16 Ph.D. and 15 M.S. students that have graduated and I have been a member of 39 graduate committees. I have been active academically, publishing 57 refereed journal articles (a number of which have received national awards), 4 book chapters, 49 conference papers with proceedings, over 100 professional conference presentations, and a number of invited lectures, technical reports and newsletter articles. In addition, I am active in a number of professional associations.

Associate Director, Colorado Agricultural Experiment Station (2000-2004)

From 2000-2004 I served as Associate Director of the Colorado Agricultural Experiment Station (CAES). This position allowed me to become familiar with the broad breath of research that was conducted at Colorado State University. CAES funded over 120 projects across 20 departments in six colleges as well as 8 off-campus research centers at that time. As part of my CAES duties I reviewed the annual reports for all 120 projects funded by CAES, selected the ones with significant outcomes, wrote the CAES annual report to USDA, and oversaw a number of campus wide special initiatives that CAES had.

Director, Integrated Decision Support Group (1992-2013)

In 1992 I founded and served as director of the Integrated Decision Support Group at Colorado State University (www.ids.colostate.edu) until 2013. This provided me excellent experience with budget projections and management. I was PI or Co-PI on more than 95 funded projects with total funding of over $12M. In 2012 the Corps of Engineers requested proposals for support of a software package that they created called “PAVER”. I submitted a proposal and it was selected and created a support center <http://paver.colostate.edu/> which quickly grew to support over 100 users and conduct training courses around the US for the software.

Teaching and Advising:

As part of my teaching responsibilities at Colorado State University, I taught 9 different classes. The classes were introduction to engineering (civil, environmental, agricultural and bioresource, and chemical), systems engineering and optimization, applications of GIS and GPS, and senior design. I also have advised the following number of graduate students:

EXTENSION

I had an Extension appointment as a water resources specialist from 1998-2013. My focus was on the use of information technology to improve water management. I worked in two main areas:

1. South Platte Basin - In my extension work in the South Platte, I established a collaborative process that I called “user-centered design” to develop Decision Support (DS) tools. With this approach, the users are key partners in the planning, development, implementation and use of the DS tools. In the South Platte, I created an advisory group of water users and state agencies to study water user data and modeling needs, and as a result of this effort, water users embraced the user-centered design approach and provided several grants for the development of the DS capabilities that we jointly identified. The DS tools are collectively called the South Platte Mapping and Analysis Program (SPMAP www.ids.colostate.edu/projects/). Components of this work were adopted as part of the South Platte three states agreement between Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska. In the years 2005-2010 the tools developed as part of this DS were used to manage over 75% of the wells in the South Platte Basin (over 3,500 wells).
2. Arkansas River Basin salinity and waterlogging issues. Between 1999-2013 I worked on monitoring and modeling salinity issues at the field scale in the Arkansas River Basin in Colorado. I was the PI on a $495,000 three-year USDA water quality grant that worked towards implementation of some of the remediation strategies in a large area of the valley. Our proposal was ranked 1st out of 102 proposals received.
